Meaghan Goldstein is an attorney at Kozyak Tropin & Throckmorton. She focuses on complex litigation and class actions.

Meaghan has experience litigating claims involving fraud and Ponzi schemes, deceptive and unfair trade practices, product defects, and business torts.

Meaghan earned her Juris Doctor, summa cum laude, from the University of Miami School of Law. While at the University of Miami, Meaghan was an editor on the Executive Board of the University of Miami Law Review and a member of the Federal Appellate Clinic and the Trial Team. Through the UM Litigation Skills program, Meaghan received the Thomas Ewald Memorial Award for devotion to high standards and ethical conduct, and the John F. Evans Memorial Scholarship for overall achievement.

Before law school, Meaghan received her Bachelor of Arts in Art History and Italian from Drew University, and her Master of Arts in Art History from Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey. Meaghan was previously an Adjunct Instructor in the Art History Department and Writing Program at Rutgers.

Meaghan is a member of the Federal Bar Association Young Lawyers Division, the Miami-Dade Chapter of the Florida Association for Women Lawyers, and an assistant coach for the UM School of Law Trial Team.

Prior to joining the firm, Meaghan worked at a Miami plaintiffs' boutique where she began her practice in class action litigation.
