Eric S. Kay is an attorney at Kozyak Tropin & Throckmorton. His practice focuses on complex litigation, class actions, and appeals.

Eric has experience litigating matters at the trial and appellate levels. He represents both plaintiffs and defendants in a wide variety of substantive areas, including business litigation, fraudulent and deceptive trade practices, products liability, and government matters.

Eric has briefed numerous appeals before the federal courts of appeals, the Florida Supreme Court, and Florida's district courts of appeal. In 2020, he was named by the Daily Business Review as one of South Florida's Most Effective Lawyers in the appellate field for obtaining a reversal of an adverse liability ruling on behalf of a certified class of more than 97,300 Miami-Dade County homeowners whose residential citrus trees were taken and destroyed without compensation by the Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services.

Prior to joining the Kozyak Tropin & Throckmorton, Eric served as a law clerk to Judge D. Michael Fisher of the United States Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit and to Judge James I. Cohn of the United States District Court for the Southern District of Florida.

Eric received his J.D., magna cum laude, from Georgetown University Law Center, where he was elected to the Order of the Coif. He graduated with a B.A. in History and Foreign Affairs from the University of Virginia.

Eric currently serves on the Board of Directors of the Miami-Dade County Bar Association.
